tally Objected To by Their Counsel. S. Levy & Co., cigarmakers at 423-425 East Bixty-third street, asked Justice Andrews of the Supreme Court yesterday to make permanent the temporary injunction issued by Justice Freedman against the Cigarmakers' International Union of America, its local union No. 144 and their members. This is one of the large cigar manufacturing firms which have been consider ing other locations for their business, finding that strikes were driving cigarmakers out of town. The temporary injunction, besides in general restraining interference with the firm's pusiness and specifically preventing the annoyng, accosting, threatening and waylaying of the plaintiffs, their employees and persons seeking work, and picketing the plaintiff's premises, ore on a novel line of restraint. It enjoined: "Paying any persons any sum of money for picketing, patrolling and loitering about the plaintiff's premises . . . and paying or offering or promising to pay to any employees of the plaintiffs any sum of money for the purpose of inducing such person or persons to refuse to enter plaintiffs' employment and from paying and promising to pay to any former employee of the plaintiffs any sum of money for the purpose of continuing organized, concerted and combined action on the part of said former employees of plaintiffs with the object and purpose of interfering with and preventing combined action on the part of said former employees of plaintiffs with the object and purpose of interfering with and preventing the plaintiffs from carrying on their business."

Clarence J. Shearn of Einstein & Townsend, attorneys for the plaintiffs, stated that the firm had employed 300 persons and made 50,000 cigars a day. It was paying the prevailing rate of wages, when on March 15 about one hundred and fifty of the men quit work. The next day the others quit. There had been no warning of this move. A so-called strike committee called on the firm and said the employees would go back if their wages were increased 30 to 40 per cent, and their hours shortened. The firm toid the committee that although they were paying the prevailing rate of wages they were not exacting the full prevailing rate of hours, and that to grant the request of the strikers in full would mean that the business could not be conducted at a profit.

"The chief defendants," said counsel, "are professional labor agitators and are not engaged in any business, except that of fomenting strikes, fostering such strikes when delared and maintaining pickets where strikes are in progress. They are members of the Cigarnakers' International Union of America and its local branch. Other defendants are striking employees of the firm, who have been engaged to malphase to the strike, but since it began that local has had it in direct charge. He explained:

"The action of the picket service instituted consists in having two or three employees parade up and down in front of the plaintiffs' factory at such times as persons are either seeking for employment or going to or returning from work. It not only consisted of the paraded but the pickets stoke the names of all persons seeking employment or going to or returning from work. It not only consisted of the paraded of the plaintiffs, and with active and open intimidation and coercion. This resulted in the complete inability on the paraded in the pickets. This continued the proper in the strike pour of the st

Lawyer Shearn was interrupted at this point by Justice Andrews, who said he had exceeded his allowance of time.

Vernon M. Davis, for the defendants, said that the injunction was an extraordinary one because it restrained from paying strike benefits, which had always been paid in strikes without legal interference, and he said he understood such payments could not legally be enjoined. He submitted affidavits which he said would disprove the allegations of intimidation. The strike, he said, was organized to maintain certain rates of pay and a diminuition of the hours of labor. These efforts were to ameliorate the condition of the employees and they were not an offence against the law. Justice Andrews reserved decision.

PRESIDENT PERKINS ARRIVES. PRESIDENT PERKINS ARRIVES

George W. Perkins, President of the Cigar-makers International Union, arrived in this city yesterday and addressed the striking eigar-makers at their headquarters, Bohemian National Hall in East Seventy-third street. He would say nothing about injunctions. He told the meeting that the union would spend its last dollar, if necessary, to aid the strikers in the present strike.

Vernon M. Davis said regarding the alleged intention of the union to proceed against a number of the manufacturers for corspiracy, that the union would wait until a decision had been given on the injunction argument. The union, he said, had some evidence, but not enough to warrant a conviction, and in the meantime a search was being made for more evidence.

"We know," he said, "that a number of the manufacturers held a meeting and decided to lock out their employees. We believe that this was done to prevent these men from contributing money to aid the cigarmakers who were on strike, but we have not evidence enough vet to proceed on

NO TIE-UP IN KANSAS CITY. Street Cars Run on Regular Schedule-The 350 Strikers Parade.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14. The street car strike here has thus far proved of no effect except to put the 350 strikers out of jobs. The cars are running as regularly as before the strike was declared.

There was a little ripple of excitement this afternoon when Mayor Reed gave the strikers a permit to parade the streets, and they set out with a brass band to serenade the various car with a brass band to serenade the various carbarns and power houses. Everybody expected trouble, and the police reserves were called out and stationed along the line of march. But the march was positively funeral like. The union leaders first applied for a parade permit to the Chief of Police and he refused. Then they went to the Mayor. He is a Bryan Democrat, who was elected last month on an anti-street railway monopoly platform, and he gave the permit in spite of objections by his two colleagues on the Board of Police Commissioners. However, no harm came from the march.

The strikers hope much from a resolution they have secured from the central labor organization urging union men not to ride on "seab" cars.

PREIGHT HANDLERS ASK A PARLEY. Superintendents of the Erle and Central Roads

Willing to Confer With the Strikers. Commissioner Francis B. Delehanty of the State Board of Arbitration received a letter yesterday from Commissioner Webster at Buffalo, asking him to arrange for a conference between representatives of the striking freight handlers of that city and the New York Central and the Eric railroads. The freight handlers at Buffalo are striking for a shorter workday and more pay, and they ask that the conference shall take place in sthis city. Mr. Delehanty called on the superindents of both roads, who told him that they were ready to grant an interview to the strikers' committee either in New York or Buffalo, but that transportation will not be furnished as the men had requested.

A riot call was sent to the West Lake street station, but the participants in the fight scattered before a patrol wagon full of officers arrived. No arrests were made. Because of the assault work on the building was stopped. Renewed charges of neglect on the part of the police were made by the Building Contractors' Council to-day.

Talk of a sympathy strike among the trades grows daily. While many of the unions have contracts with employers, running from one to six years, it is believed that several organizations are only kept from going out by the restraining influences of their national officers. Arrangements are maturing to have Debs, Gomeers, Sovereign, Parsons, Mitchell, Burns and other heads of national bodies visit the city to aid the street car men by stirring up public sympathy.

ELECTRIC LIGHT LINEMEN OUT. Prospect That Philadelphia May Suffer From

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The electric light nemen went on strike this morning for shorter hours and increased pay, and unless their demands are granted by the companies the prospect is that to-morrow night this city will be without electric lights. Their organization also takes in the electrical workers of Camden and Atlantic City, and whatever action is taken here will be followed in those two cities.

It is probable that the telephone service of the city will also suffer as the Bell Telephone the city will also suffer as the Bell Telephone men are members of the organization, and about 50 per cent. of them have already quit work. The men have made no demand as yet upon the Western Union, the Postal Telegraph or the Union Traction Company. The demands are only being made upon the companies whose work requires the men to face the greatest danger. If the companies do not yield to-morrow it is probable that the trimmers will be called out, and in that event many of the street lamps will be out to-morrow night.

LABOR IN THE GRIP OF MOTHERS

The Women of Nanticoke Take Steps to Prevent a Strike of Breaker Boys.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. May 14. - A strange proession walked to Breakers No. 5 and 7 at Nantlooke this morning. It consisted of about two score breaker boys and their mothers and each boy was held tightly by a grip on his collar taken by his mother. The boys were taken into the breakers and the mothers waited until work had started and then went home.

Each time they refuse to work the mines have to suspend, and five times in the last two weeks the 250 boys have caused the 1,000 men to remain idle a day. The mothers hearing that another strike would occur to day took a hand in the affair themselves and saw that their boys reached the breakers.

KANSAS CITY BUILDERS' LOCK-OUT.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14 - The lock-out ordered by the Builders' Club became effective this morning. Members of the club say about eight hundred men were locked out. The action was ordered in an effort to break up the Building Trades' Council and force each union to treat with contractors independently. The lock-out does not affect work on the Convention Hall About half the steel trusses for the roof are in place.

Settling Philadelphia's Labor Dispute.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14. - There is now a possibility that peace will be arranged between the labor organizations, whose differences two weeks ago resulted in throwing out of work 19,000 men. Four-fifths of these men have gone back to work. It has been agreed that the remaining 2,000 shall return to work for a week, during which time an attempt will be made to adjust the existing differences.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

CHARGES THAT BOOK CONCERN MONEY HAS BEEN MISAPPLIED.

Dr. Rich's Resolution on the Subject Tabled -Uncertainty About New Bishops The Present Bishops Reported Effective Some Church Papers May Be Abandoned. CHICAGO, May 14.—The delegates to the Methodist Conference were surprised this morning by the introduction of a resolution charging officers of the Book Concern office with misdirection of the funds. Its author was Dr. A. B. Rich of the Erie Conference, who suggested that an injunction should be secured to prevent the Book Concern's officers from disbursing its profits for any other purpose than ose established by the rules of the Church. Dr. Rich declared that much of the profits of the publishing concern went toward supporting subsidized papers and General Conferences: that many periodicals were maintained at a loss and that money which should go for the support of superannuated preachers and the widows and children of itinerant preachers went toward supporting such publications. He also charged that loans made by the Book Concern to General Conferences had never been paid. Dr. Lewis Curtis, Western book agent, de fended the management of the Book Concern. He denied emphatically that loans had not been paid. He said that many subsidized papers had to be supported for the good of the Church, and that more than $45,000 was expended annually for maintaining them. The fact that the expenses of General Conferences had been partly paid out of the book fund attracted much attention. It is said that this is in direct opposition to the rules of the Church. For the expenses of the present General Conference, $75,000 has been raised, but it is estimated that $100,000 has already been expended. Although the motion was placed upon the table, it is rumored that an investigation will be instituted.

The report of the Committee on Episcopac will be made to-morrow. Dr. J. M. Buckley of New York, chairman of the committee, says that the committee itself is still in the dark as to what its action will be. "Depend upon it," he says, "all reports as to its action hitherto made, have been pure fabrications. We don't know ourselves, and how can others know unless we know?" Many rumors are circulated in regard to this matter.

ourselves, and how can others know unless we know?" Many rumors are circulated in regard to this matter.

Some aver that four home Bishops will be elected, that none will be retired and that two foreign Bishops will be chosen to assist Bishops Hartzell and Thoburn. Another rumor is that no Bishops on the Home Board will be elected, but that two assistants for the foreign fields will be chosen and that no one will be retired. Chairman Buckley has presented a sub-report from the Committee on Episcopacy, recommending that the present Board of Bishops be declared effective. The report reads as follows: "The Committee on Episcopacy, after careful consideration respectfully reports its judgment that the following Bishops should be classed as effective: Stephen M. Merrill, Edward G. Andrews, Henry W. Warren, Cyrus D. Foss, John H. Vincent, James N. Fitzgerald, Isaac W. Jovee, Danlei A. Goodsell, Charles H. Fowler, John H. Vincent, James N. Fitzgerald, Isaac W. Jovee, Danlei A. Goodsell, Charles C. McCabe and Earl Cranston." It also recommends that Thomas Bowman and Randolph S. Foster, the eldest of the Bishops, should be continued in their present relation as the objects of the veneration and loving care of a grateful Church. This report was made to the full committee this afterpoon, but was not adopted.

It is said that the younger element is anxious to postpone the election of additional Bishops on the Home Board until 1964 so that several of the incumbents may then be placed on the superamuated list, making room for younger men. A number of young men are known to have ambittens for promotion and astrong sentiment is manifest among the delegates in favor of infusing new life and vigor into the board.

favor of infusing new life and vigor into the board.

Discussion of Article III, which has caused so much trouble between the young members and the old and the admission of women as delegates to the General Conference, still hangs in the balance. It is hardly expected that this section will be again brought before the Conference until Friday, as a special committee has been appointed to consider the entire question and report at 11 o'clock on that day.

After the report of the Committee on Episcopacy to-morrow morning the election will go over, by special order, to 10 o'clock Wednesday marning. Following the election of Bishops on Wednesday will come the choice of editors for the various Christian Advocates and of secretaries for the different church societies on Thursday. It is expected that the Committee on Book Concern will report in favor of consolidating or abandoning several of the papers that have not been bringing in a profit to the Book Concern and that the number of editors to be have not been bringing in a profit to the Bool Concern, and that the number of editors to be elected will be smaller than at any previous elected will be smaller than at any previous Conference for many years.

A PLOT TO BEAT BRYAN. Alexander Troup Says Hill, Gorman and Tam-

many Are in It. NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 14.—in an interview to-night Alexander Troup, the Connecticut member of the National Democratic Committee, makes an attack upon Arthur P. Gorman, David B. Hill, Richard Croker and other national leaders, and practically charges that they and Tammany Hall are engaged in a plot to knock out William J. Bryan. He said: "What the party will do I don't know. All that I can speak for is myself. As the case presents itself to me there is but one right course for the party to pursue and that is to reaffirm and reiterate the Chiplatform in its every princicago ple. There were hundreds of thousands, aye, millions of voters, who four years ago thought it was right and who, if allowed the free exercise of their opinions, will still think it right. The class of people I have in mind are those who act from honest convictions and not those who ride with a political party and strive for leadership simply to further their personal interests. I refer to such men as Arthur P. Gorman, David B. Hill, Richard Croker and men of that class. They now come out and say they are for Bryan, and undoubtedly they are until after he is nominated, as he surely will be. In fact his nomination may already be considered as assured.

"What will they do after the convention? If they don't deliberately work against him they will undoubtedly damn his campaign by such faint efforts in his behalf that they might as well take the out and our convenies resident that they will undoubtedly damn his campaign by such faint efforts in his behalf that they might as well take the out-and-out opposing position that they did in the last campaign. Their scheme is simply to get him out of the way. To that end they will lend apparent sympathy to his cause, meantime hoping for his defeat. In the latter case they will be in a position to go before the country with the statement that having been twice chosen as the party leader and twice defeated, he is no longer to be considered as a political force of enough importance to entitle him to further recognition as a Presidential possibility. They will then say that the party is again in a position to return to the principles of Tilden, Cleveland and Carlisle, and in the exercise of a self-appointed leadership they will try to make it appear that to them is given the task of rescuing the party from the slough of despair. But it wont work.

"The Tammany leaders in New York express great friendship for Bryan and are loud in declaring for his nomination. How is it that Tammany Hall has selected a number of steering committees whose duty it is to visit all the hotels in New York city, become acquainted with the guests from the various cities West and South, and those of Democratic faith are worked for a modified platform and a conservative leadership? Croker, Murphy, Hill, Melaughlin et al. will favor the Chicago platform when Wall street favors it and not till then."

Mr. Troup said that in a recent talk with Chairman Melbert B. Cary of the Democratic State Central Committee of Connecticut he told Cary to go into the Republican party, "Where you and every man who believes as you do belongs" Mr. Cary had informed Mr. Troup that he still believed in the single gold standard, and didn't know just what to do.

The Women's Championship of Great Britain at Westward Ho!

To-day the annual championship of the Ladies Golf Union of Great Britain will begin at Westward Ho! the famous links of the Royal North Devon Golf Club. The championship was first played in 1893, and two English, two Scotch and one Irish player have in turn held the title, the first three having been won by Lady Margaret Scott. It is expected that there will be from seventy to eighty starters. The present titleseventy to eighty stariers. The present titleholder is Miss May Hezlett, a seventeen-vearoid Irish girl, who won at Newcastle, Ireland, last year. Miss Hezlett and Miss Rhona Adair runner-up to her in the Irish close championship, are announced as sure starters. The Scottish players will include the Misses Sybil and Mollie Whigham. The latter makes her first appearance in a championship, but she has the reputation of being one of the longest drivers at Prestwick, often getting a 200-yard bail from the tee and playing equally well through the green.
Last winter she won the Cannes gold medal.
The Misses Whigham have six brothers, five of whom are good golfers, so that they have not lacked clever coaching. One brother was a semi-finalist in the amateur championship at Prestwick last year, and another had the same honor last week at Sandwich. Another brother,

PLENTY OF FIGHTING TALK.

UNDER DISCUSSION NOW. Jeffries Willing to Meet Anybody, Especially Corbett and Fitzsimmons, Who, It is Suggested, Might Meet Again Themselves

There is a chance for several important heavyweight fights to be arranged in the near future. Champion James J. Jeffries, not particularly anxious to pose as an actor just vet. and more desirous to shine as an active exponent of the manly art, has announced through his manager, William A. Brady, that he will take on Corbett, Sharkey, Fitzsimmons, McCoy, Ruhlin and Maher first come first served. Jeff says he will fight Corbett again a week from next Monday before any club and bet, him $10 -000 to $5,000 that he can duplicate the trick of ast Friday night. The champion also declares that if Fitzsimmons defeats Ruhlin he will make a match with the Cornishman on the same terms exacted by Fitz when he met the champion-65 per cent. of the purse to Jeffries, win or lose. Fitzsimmons, on the other hand, says he will fight Jeffries, winner take all, which s certainly a business-like proposition.

The rejuvenation of Corbett has caused all sorts of propositions to be made by the men who like to make matches between heavyweight pugilists. Not fifteen minutes after Jeffries had been declared winner last Friday night, the suggestion was made by several experts that a twenty-five-round fight between Corbett and Kid McCoy would prove an attraction, if only because of the wonderful science of these pugilists. Just after Corbett was whipped by Tom Sharkey, the critics were almost unanimous in the belief that the pompadour boxer would be an easy mark for McCoy, chiefly on condition and hitting. But, as Corbett showed ast week that his condition was all that any one could ask for, the consensus of opinion is now that if he ever runs up against McCoy the latter will have but one advantage ability to hit harder with either hand. It is doubtful whether McCoy can show the remarkable cleverness, speed and hear work that Corbett is known to possess. It is also a fact that the Kid would weigh probably fifteen pounds less than Jim. but in general makeup, style and methods, these two fighters are more alike than any others that could be named.

McCoy has a match on hand with Tom Sharkey which will prevent a lattle with Corbett for some time to come. Jeffries has agreed to take Corbett on again in the near future, but if such a meeting should be an impossibility, then the sports would like to see Corbett tackle his old and bitter rival Bob Fitzsimmons, providing, of course, the latter disposes of Gus Ruhlin up at Tuckahoe the first week of next month. A meeting between Corbett and Fitzsimmons this summer would be of particular interest under existing conditions. Both have been knocked out by Jeffries Fitz in eleven rounds and Corbett in twenty-three rounds. Fitz, it will be remembered, settled Corbett at but in general makeup, style and methods,

Incorporation papers were filed yesterday for the proposed boxing club at Madison Square Garden, which will be known as the Diana Athletic Club Jim Kennedy has been appointed by the directors as matchenaker, and will take possession of the Garden on May 26. Kennedy is going to make an effort to get McCoy and Corbett together, and will give the boxer: a good percentage of the gate receipts. If Bob Fitzsimmons is satisfied, Kennedy says that he will try to pull off the ex-champion's match with Ruhlin at the Garden instead of at Tuckahoe, Before Carson City in March, 1898, with a punch on the solar i lexus delivered in the fourteenth round. Corbett has always maintained since then that his defeat was a fluke, that he had the better of the argument up to the time that he was stopped and that he was not in the best of condition.

In his present form Corbett, the experts say, would not be any easy mark for Firzsimmons, who is not considered to be the pugilist he was when he won out at Carson. There are hundreds of New Yorkers who would have seen the battle in Nevada between these men if it had not been for the distance, and if they could be brought together in this yieinity fight, pro-ARIOUS HEAVYWEIGHT MATCHES not been for the distance, and if they could be brought together in this vicinity fight promoters say there would be a big crowd. Corbett and Fitzsimmons have never been warm friends. There was no end of bickering between them prior to their fight at Carson and even after that event had been decided the mud throwing continued. Against Jeffres, Corbett made a better showing than Fitzsimmons. Jim had a big advantage on points in fifteen rounds, and had the champion groggy in one round, something that Fitz did not accomplish. Corbett also lasted twice as long. In comparison Fitz is the greater puncher of the two, but he is not so fast, neither does he possess the boxing skill.

not so fast, neither does he possess the boxing skill.

There is still another fight mapped out for Corbett—a mix-up with Tom Sharkey. When they met at the Lenox A. C. more than a year ago Corbett was away out of form and was whipped when his second, McVey, jumped into the ring in the ninth round. But as he is to day, Corbett might be better able to take care of himself in front of the aggressive sailor. Sharkey did not receive a knock-out at the hands of Jeffries in twenty-five rounds, but he got a thorough walloping, and, in the estimation of good judges, he would have been effectually stopped had that fight gone to a finish. Sharkey knocked McCoy out in ten rounds, but narrowly escaped being put to sleep himself in the third. His weight and aggressiveness won that fight, but it was no use against Jeffries. In Corbett, Sharkey would meet a man of equal weight, taker, eleverer and with a better knowledge of ring tactics. Like Jeffries, the Sailor would have the better of it in physical strength. It is argued, however, that if it took Jeffries twenty-three rounds to stop Corbett, it might tealed to stay the limit, in Jeffries, the Salior would have the better of it in physical strength. It is argued, however, that if it took Jeffries twenty-three rounds to stop Corbett, it might take Sharkey longer and, possibly, Jim might be able to stay the limit, in which event he would run an excellent chance of securing a victory on points.

Fitzsimmons's match with Ruhlin, by the way, has grown more interesting since the latter finished working with Corbett. Ruhlin's manager, Billy Madden, is receiving credit for shrewdness in having his fighter train with the pompadour man, from whom many valuable pointers have been learned. Ruhlin, while a groenhorn, fought a twenty-round draw with Jeffries out on the coast, but since that time the big Akron puglist has improved with rapidity and to-day he is looked upon as a dangerous proposition. Fitzsimmons is expected to beat him by the rank and file of ring followers who got a good line on the fight, they believe, when they saw Bob finish Ed Dunkhorst in two rounds the other night and remembered that Ruhlin couldn't put the freight car' to sleep in twenty-three rounds at Coney Island a year ago.

Madden said vesterday afternoon that Ruhlin and the Champion are as good as matched and that the encounter will be decided before the club giving the best inducement on July 1, providing, of course, that Ruhlin is not defeated by Fitzsimmons in the meantime. Madden further said that Jeffries promised him a match with Ruhlin before the champion went into the ring with Corbett at Loney Island.

It appears that Corbett and Jeffries fought for 80 per cent, of the net receipts amounted to 33,000, the club only made, it is said, $12,000, It is not known whether the two fighters split the $20,000 equally between them, but the impression prevails that they did.

There is a very slim chance of Jeffries and Sharkey coming together in Paris next September at the World's Exposition unless the offer of $25,000 which Thomas A. Haller has agreed to give for a 25-round bout between the two men is materially increased.

While the talk is going the rounds regarding Jeffries's future plans, it is a well-known fact that Jeffries's left arm, which was injurred while he was training for Sharkey, has gone back on him and is causing him a good deal of bother. Brady does not think that the accident will keep his protégé out of the ring, but admits that the injury was further aggravated in the champion's nell with Corbett. It is understood that Jeffries is soon to have his arm operated upon. The champion umpired another game of baseball in New Jersey yesterday.

this can be done, however, Kennedy will have to pay to the fighters each $1,000. This represents the forfeits which Ruhlin and Fitzsimmons have p sted to insure their appearance in the ring at Westchester. ## Small Boy Dug Out of an Excavation.

Several small boys, playing hide-and-seek at Stanton and Suffolk streets last night, hid in an excavation. While the boys were there the shoring planks at the sides gave way and the sand poured in on the boys. Meyer Rubenstein, 9 years old, of 11 Stanton street, was almost buried and was taken to Gouverneur Hospital badly bruised. A fire truck company cleared out the hole, but found no bodies.
